Dear Mr. Goldstein:

Thanks so much for your support of our press conference last week and signing our letter to President Biden to increase fuel assistance for struggling families.

It struck a chord with me to hear from you about how tough it is for working families to get through a cold winter on a fixed income. As an oil executive speaking out in favor of fuel assistance for families in need, you demonstrate the depth of your social conscience. The event, we hope, was the first step in a successful effort to boost LIHEAP funds for the upcoming winter and to meet cooling needs the following summer.

I know there is no magic fix to the hardships faced by many, but you should be proud of the part you played in bringing public attention to what low-income households go through when energy prices skyrocket.

Thanks again for your help and your continued support of both Citizens and me personally, Larry.

Sincerely,
