

The Sound of Silence is Deafening:
“A Crisis Under Control”? (9/15)
(This is part 2, see The Answer is Blowing in the Wind)

Unless the Administration (and general media) hear from us, we will get more of the same. The border issue should cross party lines. Yet, the parties have lined upon different sides. The Republicans and FOX for example are playing it from both sides, making it legitimate issue and a political one. Republicans have made numerous visits to the border, the Democrats are AWOL, and the N.Y. Times is generally ignoring it

The Administration can't even admit that they could be doing better. Our press secretary just said once again that the border is under control and secure. If so then the governors and mayors from democratic states have nothing to worry about. The border is secure.

They have it under control. I guess it's like the takeover in 2020/2021 of Portland, Oregon and Seattle, Washington was “mostly peaceful”, despite the fact that people died, billions of dollars of property was destroyed, and businesses were ransacked.

They have it under control, just ask the White House and our press secretary. She said that the drugs are no longer coming in since they are capturing all the fentanyl. In that light they might want to take credit for reducing the demand for the drugs. Last year 100,000 people mostly young Americans died from using the imported drug. Can you recall when the last time was that the President or the V.P actually visited the real border?

If they don't hear from us, it would continue to be business as usual. Too many people are dying, time to speak up and be heard.
